

SEE SOMETHING.
SAY SOMETHING.

ALBERTA SCHOOL TOUR
FALL 2014

Renowned motivational speaker Candace Carnahan and leading Alberta safety education advocates Safety In Schools have partnered to create the first-ever “See Something. Say Something” speaking tour of Alberta Secondary Schools.

About Candace

Candace was seriously injured as a summer student working in a paper mill. Her personal story resonates with youth who are at a vulnerable age and an increased risk of workplace injury and death. Candace's unique presentation style melds humour, life lessons and harsh reality to leave students with an unforgettable message and a life-changing outlook on workplace safety.

About Safety in Schools

Formed by industry to address the high rate of workplace injuries among young workers (aged 15-14), Safety in Schools is dedicated to preparing every young person entering the workforce with the knowledge to recognize and avoid hazards, regardless of which career path they choose.

Safety in Schools meets this mandate by delivering free online, industry-recognized workplace safety courses to high school students at participating schools and working with industry partners to engage youth in the conversation about safety.
